

Managed Transportation: Drive Better Results

Your customer relationships and profit margins are at stake. Trust your transportation outsourcing to Redwood.

Remember when it used to be easier to move products from Point A to Point B? Now shippers have to contend with:

Increasing carrier rates

Hidden fees and costs

More frequent disruptions

Demand volatility

Compliance and regulatory issues

Why not leave the driving to Redwood?

As a modern 4PL, Redwood Logistics offers all the solutions and services you need to optimize your transportation results. Our proven managed transportation capabilities enable us to custom-tailor a solution that meets your specific needs. And, with $1 billion in managed transportation and 15% average customer savings, Redwood knows how to drive maximum returns for your company. Focus on your core business challenges, while you rely on the experts at Redwood to master today's transportation complexities.

Four ways Redwood drives customer value:

1

Every mode, every load size, every route.

When the rubber meets the road, Redwood has your needs covered. We offer flexible, multimodal managed transportation, covering full truckload, less-than-truckload and parcel. With our privately owned fleet assets, carrier relationships, proven best practices and decades of experience, Redwood typically saves customers millions of dollars on their transportation spend — while still delivering on customer commitments. From everyday shipments to project logistics, cross-border and cold chain, Redwood has the capacity, equipment and expertise you need.

2

End-to-end services and solutions.

Redwood can also support the end-to-end managed services cycle, from strategic advisory to reporting and analytics. We don't just execute, we elevate your approach to execution — delivering consistent, measurable improvements in costs, service, sustainability and other key performance metrics. Backed by over 300 managed services consulting engagements, Redwood knows how to drive maximum value from your outsourcing initiatives.

A custom-tailored approach.

Every shipper has different transportation needs — and Redwood recognizes there's no such thing as a "one size fits all" managed services approach. Redwood has access to diverse equipment, carriers, transportation management system (TMS) software, and other resources that address customer needs at a granular level. Redwood also has gained best practices, process templates and TMS vendor-specific expertise during thousands of customer engagements. We understand your specific challenges, and we know exactly how to address them.

Leading-edge technology.

As Redwood manages your transportation needs, we connect directly to your TMS and other internal systems, to provide real-time visibility and support seamless workflows across your transportation function. Leading-edge technology enables us to collaboratively resolve disruptions with your team in real time and keep all your shipments on track. If you need help modernizing your internal systems, or integrating them, Redwood can help with that challenge too. Redwood's unmatched technology expertise allows customers to create a connected ecosystem that shares the same data and real-time awareness across multiple functions and trading partners. Our proprietary solution, RedwoodConnect, is a plug-and-play, cloud-native integration platform that quickly connects you with Redwood's managed services team, as well as other partners.

Need Capacity? You've Found It.

There's no need to struggle with the increasing complexity of the transportation landscape. Redwood's managed services team knows the way to improved cost and service results. We can get you there fast and cost-effectively, no matter what unique challenges you're facing. Reach out today, and let's get on the road to better results.
